Learn more truckers spend many long hours and days on the road, and they deserve to be spoiled every now and again – especially at Christmas, their birthday, or another special occasion. If you're not sure what to get a trucker in your life, we have some suggestions. Our buying guide includes several products and gadgets that will make life on the road for these hard-working men and women just a little easier and more comfortable. From seat cushiones and GPS units to Bluetooth devices and portable coolers, there are plenty of items truckers would love to have in their cabins. No matter what occasion or holiday, these gifts are good options if you are looking to reward your favorite truck driver for everything they do. The best gifts for Truck Drivers This smart-looking tactical wallet is a great gift for an outdoor loving chap who likes to be prepared for pretty much anything while on the road. Not only does the wallet have an RFID blocker to protect up to 12 credit cards or money cards, but it also has enough gadgets to impress Boy Scout. With 14 cool features built in, it's an awesome high carbon stainless steel multi-tool. From mini-saw, knife, ruler, nail pryer, paracord retractor, even smartphone stand, this tactical purse can turn your talents to a host of running repairs. Several instruments can also be removed from the safe, which must be used separately. Oh, and as one of our best gifts for truck drivers, the wallet is also made from the top of the grain leather, with safety locks to keep everything safe. Discreet, wireless, and comfortable to wear, FocusPower mini Bluetooth earbuds will allow your trucker rock to bring their favorite tunes directly from your smartphone. We really like the battery life of these mini headphones, which the makers claim are about 1.5 times more than other similar products. You will need to manage the volume to get on your own juice, but there's enough power to get you through the day trip. Ergonomically designed, they are also kind to the ears, which means that they fit safely without additional pressure. For about $20, these earbuds are of great value and will give awesome stocking filler gifts to truck drivers. If your trucker sits for a long time and complains about the numb butt, then check out this gel memory foam pillow from ComfLife. With a non-slip rubber bottom and built-in handle, it is designed for life on the road and provides excellent comfort and support during extended trips. We really like how it contours into an individual fit and is ergonomically designed to support the tailbone, promoting a healthy posture while sitting. It also provides relief when back pain and sciass are an issue. Plus, there's a removable lid for super-easy cleaning. This is one of those Christmas gifts for truck drivers they will wonder how lived without! Eating on the move can make it easier with this cool cool it is both durable and lightweight. With your cute spoon and fork combo, you'll also get a bottle opener as well as a hex screwdriver and wrench to boot. And all about ten bucks - which is not to love! Buy this for your trucker and they can keep it with them wherever they go, thanks to a rugged carbine that easily snaps on a belt or backpack. Ok, fork twigs are on the small side, but as a scoop and eat this spork multi-tool works really well. A nice small gift to tuck into your trucker's stocking. The Garmin dezl OTR800 8-inch GPS Truck Navigator features an eight-inch touchscreen and displays information in either landscape or portrait mode. In some areas you can enter the platform height, length, width and weight to find routes that are better suited for trucks and their loads. The device also has routes that are popular among trucks, as well as instructions for loading in the dock, which show loading areas and storage lots. This truck-centered GPS also shows truck-friendly parking and rest stops through your Truck & Trailer Services directory and provides warnings about bridge height, sharp curves, and steep grades. Users love having arrival time, distance stops, and other information at a glance. There are several mounting options, wireless updates and voice assistant to facilitate handsfree driving. Although it's a great device, one complaint is that switching screens or menus has a offset. Also, the suction mount is not the best, and not to mention a little pricey. To keep all your trucker's tech powered when they're on the road, this multi-port power inverter from Bestek could very well be a juicer go-to. This little powerhouse provides 200 watts of continuous DC with AC, ideal for charging multiple electronic devices from 12 volt outlets in most vehicles. With smartphones, GPS devices, laptops, and tablets on the road, you get three AC sockets and four USB ports, so it's great for reusing smartphones, GPS devices, laptops, and tablets. There's also a built-in fuse and cooling fan to keep your tech protected. The kit comes with a 2.5-foot cigarette lighter plug cable so you can get off the road when you charge it. Plus, there's an 18 month warranty. Not suitable for heavy duty items. Plakit go to your trucker with the ultimate in-cab radio system with Sirius XM satellite radio plus installation kit and you'll go to the top of your favorite person list! With commercially free radio, they can choose from sports, news, and entertainment as well as their favorite music genre – all this perfect for whiling away hours on the road. You also receive a three-month free streaming service subscription, but then you'll need to set up a monthly subscription. However, you can customize your radio channel with all your personal favorites. Easily insisting on the system, you can stream your Sirius over the radio in the cab of the car for immediate use. Perfect for life on the road, Sirius XM gives one-touch access in real time updates, regardless of location. And if your trucker doesn't use anything, they can simply pause, rewind or replay for up to 30 minutes. We think this is one of the best Christmas gifts for truck drivers who have everything. Well, almost everything. If your trucker is spending time in your cab, then why not improve your sleep routine with this super-comfy memory blowing mattress from Mobile Innerspace.
